521 SecureCRT - Version 6.7.5 (build 411) Thu, 08 Nov 2018 04:03:00 GMT VanDyke Software Forums - SSH: Key exchange failed, do I ... - The diffie-hellman key-exchange method is off by default to address the Logjam vulnerability. It can be turned on in the Sessions Options dialog in the Connection/SSH2 category in order to connect to servers that only support diffie-hellman. Fri, 09 Nov 2018 13:56:00 GMT VanDyke Software Forums - diffie-hellman key exchange disabled - It appears that it matters in 7.2 of SecureCRT what the order of the key exchange methods is. If diffie-hellman is first and Kerberos appears after that, things seem to work ok. I'm working with VanDyke through their forum to see what this is about. Sun, 11 Nov 2018 06:30:00 GMT Problems connecting with SecureCRT 7.2 - Centrify Community - In SecureCRT 8.0 and later, the Diffie-Hellman key-exchange method is off by default because of the Logjam vulnerability. For the security-minded professional, Diffie-Hellman should be left disabled, and SSH2 server implementation should be upgraded or configured to support a more secure key exchange algorithm. Mon, 12 Nov 2018 10:46:00 GMT SecureCRT ® FAQ - VanDyke - If using an RSA

key type and SecureCRT or SecureFX 7.3 or newer, you can then select a key length between 512 and 16,384 bits (SecureCRT and SecureFX versions 7.2 and earlier are limited to key lengths between 512 and 2048 bits). 2048 bits is a common length with a good level of security.
